Educational Talk by Daryl Weaver | Finding Your Niche

Just as companies need to find their niche in the market, employees need to find their niche in the workplace. While all the jobs of the workplace are important, not just any role is a fit for you. Finding your niche at work can be challenging, but well worth the trouble to find it. More importantly, it's a matter of reaching your full God-given potential and delivering the most value to God's Kingdom at the place of your employment. In this session, we'll explore several assets you have to help you discover your niche.
